

Valerie Hunter

Valerie Hunter has been an enthusiastic subscriber and donor to the Vancouver Recital Society for almost 20 years. Having worked in the charitable sector as a foundation grants manager and a fundraiser, she is knowledgeable of the operational, financial and governance structure of a non-profit organization. Her professional life also included work in educational publishing where she held sales, marketing, and editorial positions. Her greatest satisfaction, professionally and personally, comes from collaboration and she welcomes the opportunity to contribute to the well-being and longevity of the VRS.

Since retirement Valerie has enjoyed camping and hiking and kayaking throughout the west. With wings clipped due to COVID, she has spent more time in her garden, playing with her grand-daughter, mentoring climate action groups in fundraising, and learning how to do genealogical research.
